

COLLAPSED IN COURT

Mrs. "Nan" Patterson Became Hysterical When Informed She Was Under Indictment.

GAVE WAY UNDER STRAIN

She Will be Arraigned Before Court of General Sessions To-day—Smith Still Missing.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Mrs. Nan Patterson, the actress, who was with Caesar Young, the bookmaker, in a cab on June 4th, when he was shot and instantly killed, to-day was indicted for murder in the first degree.

Mrs. Patterson was told in the coroner's court-room that she had been indicted. For the first time since she recovered from the first shock of Young's death, she showed emotion, becoming hysterical. Her condition bordered on collapse and Coroner Jackson, who is a physician, was called to attend her. Stimulants were administered and she became calmer. Dr. Jackson said the young woman's heart had given way under the strain she is undergoing, but that the weakness was only temporary. Mrs. Patterson was accompanied to court by her father and by a school-girl friend, Miss McLaughlin. At the close of the hearing she was taken back to the Tombs.

J. Morgan Smith, Mrs. Patterson's brother-in-law, who is under subpoena as a witness, has not been found. J. B. Patterson, of Washington, father of the prisoner, Miss McLaughlin and a man who declined to give his name, called on Mrs. Patterson at the Tombs to-day. At the end of the interview, Mr. Patterson said he was surprised that the grand jury had indicted his daughter. He said, however, that this only strengthened his determination to stand by the prisoner and protect her with every means in his power.

The filing of the indictment obliterated the hearing of much evidence at the coroner's inquest, which was held to-day. Only a few witnesses were examined and Young quickly returned a verdict that Young came to his death by a bullet wound.

Mrs. Patterson will be arraigned to plead before Judge Newburger in the Court of General Sessions to-morrow.

HEAD SOLID SORE

Awful Suffering of Baby and Sleepless Nights of Mother.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Skin Fair as a Lily with no Scar to Recall Awful Sore Writes Mother.

"I herewith write out in full the beginning and end of that terrible disease, eczema, which caused my babe under suffering and myself many sleepless nights.

"My babe was born seemingly a fair, healthy child, but when she was three weeks old a swelling appeared on the back of her head, and in course of time broke. It did not heal but grew worse, and the sore spread from the size of a dime to that of a dollar. I used all kinds of remedies that I could think of, but nothing seemed to help; in fact, it grew worse. Her hair fell out where the sore was, and I feared it would never grow again. It continued until my aged father came on a visit, and when he saw the baby he told me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment right away.

"To please him I did so, and to my surprise by their use the sore began to heal over, the hair grew over it, and to-day she has a nice head of hair, her skin is as fair as a lily, and she has no scar left to recall that awful sore, and it is over eight months and no sign of its returning."

Mrs. Wm. Ryer, Elk River, Minn.

"Cure permanent." So writes Mrs. Ryer, Feb. 25, 1903, six years later:

"Your letter of the 19th inst. received, asking in regard to the cure of my baby some six years ago. Well, I can tell you that time was a solid sore on top and down the back. Once or twice since then a patch has come on her hand near the wrist, but it finally disappeared after proper treatment with Cuticura."

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c. Cuticura Ointment, 10c. Prepared by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A. Beware of cheap imitations. See that the name "Cuticura" is prominent on the wrapper.

D. K. Wood, John Moncreu, F. W. Putney.

Greek Medalist—John Moncreu.

History—B. P. Alley, O. W. Anderson, Frances Broadbent, W. C. McElroy, W. E. Clark, W. F. Dunaway, Jr., G. W. Fogg, M. C. Frazier, L. P. Hardy, G. B. Ish, C. A. Jenkins, L. H. Smith, L. H. Walton.

Mathematics—Dickerson and Schultz.

Literature—Brenner, Charles G. Fogg, Frank G. H. Putney, Sublett, Rawles, Ryland, Simmons, L. W. Smith, D. K. Wood, Miss Lovestien, Miss Broadbent.

Science—Charles L. Leake, D. K. Wood, P. P. Woodfin, Mac Iver Woody, English—Miss Broadbent, G. W. Fogg.

Bible School—W. M. Black, O. B. Falls, S. T. Habel, J. H. Hubbell, Curtis Story, Aubrey Saunders.

THE SERMON.

Dr. Carver Speaks to Large Audience in College Chapel.

The baccalaureate sermon before the students of Richmond college was preached on Sunday night in the college chapel by Prof. W. Owen Carver, D. D., of Louisville, Ky. The attendance was very large.

Dr. Carver spoke from the text, "The mind turns first of all to the life of Jesus Christ and the question of how he invested his life in the world."

He named as the fact that "the son of man came to give his life" and the principle of his living in his words, "Verily, I say unto you, except a grain of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth by itself alone, but if it die it brings forth much fruit."

He named as the principles of the life of Jesus: (1) That his life was invested under the direction of God his Father, and he gave his life for the world.

He named as the principle of the life of Jesus: (2) That he was given to others, asking nothing for himself and holding nothing from the complete sacrifice of himself.

He named as the principle of the life of Jesus: (3) That he was given to the world, and he gave his life for the world.

He named as the principle of the life of Jesus: (4) That he was given to the world, and he gave his life for the world.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

General Horatio C. King Makes an Address on Economic Questions.

CELEBRATIONS OF SOCIETIES

The Social Features of the Occasion Were a Morning and an Evening German.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, June 13.—A well known Virginia educator, jealous of the University of Virginia prestige, made the prediction some years ago that the day would soon come when cabbages would be grown on the University lawn. The grand old institution has now run on through four-score years, and the prophecy seems far from fulfillment. Could the gentleman in question take a glance at the lovely scene on the lawn to-night, he might be constrained to withdraw his prediction and say something far more pleasant about the University future.

The present commencement exercises, while not quite so interesting as last year, when President Roosevelt paid the institution a visit, are being largely attended, the number of old students on the grounds being unusually large.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The religious exercises yesterday were largely attended. At the morning hour the baccalaureate sermon was preached in the pretty gothic chapel by the Rev. James D. Paxton, late of Princeton University, but now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Lynchburg. The sermon was an impressive one.

At 8 o'clock in the evening, perhaps the largest Sunday night audience that ever gathered in the auditorium was on hand to hear the annual address before the Young Men's Christian Association.

This was delivered by the Hon. Bettis Galloway, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. With "The Christ Preaching" as his theme, the distinguished divine delivered one of the most powerful discourses heard at the University in years. People of all denominations have had nothing but praise for the magnificent effort. The hour assumed in its delivery seemed but a short while to the audience.

LITERARY CELEBRATION.

The annual celebration of the Washington and Jefferson Literary Societies occurred to-night in the public hall. To-night, the exercises were taken place in the morning of Monday, but this year the programme was changed.

Among those who occupied seats on the stage in addition to the presiding officer in the society medalists, were the speaker of the evening, General Horatio C. King, of the Board of Governors, J. M. Montague, Dr. Thomas Nelson Page, Dr. James Morris Page, chairman of the faculty, Professor William Minor Lee, dean of the law faculty, and Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the chair of English literature.

Governor Montague was called in to preside over the exercises, and he stepped upon the platform in company with Dr. Kent, he was loudly applauded.

SOCIAL SIDE.

The social gayeties began with the morning german of the University German Club.

To-night the P. K. Club german is being danced in the Fayerweather Gymnasium, with hundreds of spectators looking on from the running track at the pretty figures, led by Mr. Armistead M. Dobbie, of Norfolk.

To-morrow night occurs the final ball, the crowning event of the social season. To-morrow is the big day of the commencement—alumni day. The public exercises in the morning include the presentation of a portrait of Professor Thomas Norwood, of the University of Virginia, who died last year.

The presentation of the portrait of the late Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Davidson College, N. C., will be held before the exercises. A business meeting of the association will have to be chosen to succeed the late Judge James B. Sener, of Washington, whose untimely death occurred on November 18th inst.

BOARD OF VISITORS.

The board of visitors met in the afternoon, but were in session less than two hours. The members present were the rector, Charles P. Jones, of Hillsboro, R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax; Henry H. Downing, of Front Royal; William H. White, of Charlottesville; The Hon. B. F. Buchanan, who reached the University early in the evening. With the possible exception of the Hon. Eppa Hunton, a full attendance of the members is expected at the session of the body to-morrow morning.

It is believed that a president will certainly be chosen at this meeting of the board. There is more than the usual amount of business that demands the attention of the visitors, and it is probable that no adjournment will be taken to-morrow.

General King's address dealt in the main with economic questions and was closely listened to by the select audience. In discussing what he termed the "growth of the nation," he pointed out the reckless encroachments and unreasonable demands of labor organizations, and the speaker dealt at length with the question of the right of the employer to strike in Colorado, which was the subject of the meeting.

The constitutional rights of every man, the liberty and the pursuit of happiness cannot be impeached in this land, and the right of every man to be free from the oppression of the law-abiding citizen, and it is going to be maintained by force if necessary. And it will be perpetuated by the laboring classes themselves by the workers in the preservation of their individual liberty. For those who are in a small minority, not exceeding twenty per cent., as I have stated, and the eighty per cent. of the law-abiding citizen, American freedom, slow to anger, will in due time rise in their might and crush out the rabid, vicious, turbulent and anarchical element. I think it will be accomplished by peaceful methods, but if force be necessary, we will establish the God-given right, re-emphasized and guaranteed by the Constitution, to exclude from the

A Word About the Status of the Sweetser - Pembroke Auction.

The passing of the Sweetser-Pembroke Company was occasioned through the death of Mr. Howard Sweetser, the senior member of the firm, and the disinclination of those interested to continue the business.

The concern was one of the largest in this country, if not in the world, and as Mr. Sweetser's demise and the events that followed were in no way suspected, the house was, as might be supposed, fully stocked and equipped for its regular and immense business.

How new the stock must all have been may be imagined when it is said by persons in position to know that the firm turned its merchandise over fully three times a year.

There is absolutely nothing to connect such an assemblage of goods with the ordinary odds and ends, laggards and "buyer-begging aggregations of the auction-room."

There is hardly a dry goods house of any size in this city or in any other city in the United States that has not bought earlier in this season these very goods from this very house and paid from twenty-five to fifty per cent. more money for them.

The auction was simply resorted to in this case as the quickest and most expedient way of disposing of 1,200,000 dollars' worth of new and desirable goods.

We were fortunate in securing our very big share of these goods. They will arrive from day to day and we shall announce them as they come. Every yard of them will be an unqualified bargain.
